□ OBSERVATIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Upon concluding my term (2005-2006) as Chair of the CAJP, I would like to present a few observations and recommendations on the workings of the Committee and the enormous number of topics assigned to it. In so doing, I trust that they may be taken into account by the Permanent Council of the Organization as it begins its work for 2006-2007.

1. The number of topics assigned to the Committee on Juridical and Political Affairs has increased enormously in recent years. In order to ensure serious political monitoring of the different themes, especially in the field of human rights and of international law, it would be advisable for the Permanent Council to try and strike a balance in the number of topics it assigns to its various committees. The allocation should not only be based on each committee's expertise. It should also bear in mind that assigning an excessive number of topics to a single committee prevents that committee from paying each topic the full attention it deserves (especially when the majority of subjects assigned to the CAJP have to do with human rights).

29. Presented by the delegation of Peru.

30. Presented by the Chair of the Working Group (Guatemala) and sponsored by the delegations of Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Guatemala, Peru and Venezuela.

31. Presented by the delegation of Brazil (Chair of the Working Group) and sponsored by the delegations of Bahamas, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Guatemala, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

2. The aforementioned difficulties faced by the CAJP are exacerbated by the number of meetings and other special events that have to be held under General Assembly mandates. Not only do these meetings and special events absorb a substantial number of working days; organizing them also takes time, as the agendas for them have to be negotiated in the course of numerous regular meetings of the Committee, which delays consideration of the already large number of topics on its regular agenda.

3. The secretarial support provided to the Committee also needs to be reviewed, since, for a body like the CAJP, a single person simply cannot cope with the secretarial work load of the Committee and its two working groups. The Committee's working groups should have their own infrastructure, given that together they require as much support as a permanent committee of the Permanent Council, especially now that both working groups are working on future, extremely complex and delicate international human rights instruments.

4. These comments are not in any way intended to insinuate a lack of collaboration on the Secretariat's part in our efforts to overcome the difficulties encountered. Nor do I wish to imply that the staff serving the Committee directly or indirectly are inefficient. On the contrary, the Chair invariably found the Secretariat willing to do its utmost to find the best possible solution to the problems detected. Nevertheless, the abovementioned organs lack sufficient means to do their job properly. All the staff the CAJP depends on are completely dedicated to their work and committed to the success of the CAJP's work and that of its two Working Groups. Their extraordinary effort and personal commitment (way beyond the call of duty) exceed any reasonable expectations, as has been proved on numerous occasions. And yet they should not have to be stretched to a point at which they have to deal simultaneously with a plethora of tasks in an area in which the delegations demand quality and speed in delivering large volumes of work.

ACTIVITIES OF THE WORKING GROUP
DURING THE 2005-2006 TERM

(Report of the Chair – presented to the Committee on Juridical and Political Affairs on April 20, 2006)

I. BACKGROUND

At its thirty-fifth regular session, the OAS General Assembly adopted resolution AG/RES. 2073 (XXXV-O/05), which reaffirmed, as a priority of the Organization of American States, the adoption of the American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, acknowledging the importance of the final phase of negotiations initiated by the Working Group to Prepare the Draft American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, in which negotiation meetings were arranged in pursuit of a consensus and an early and successful conclusion of the draft Declaration, and emphasizing the importance of broad and effective participation by representatives of indigenous peoples in the process of preparing the Draft Declaration.

In that resolution, the General Assembly also renewed the mandate of the Working Group so that it might conclude the final phase of negotiations on the draft Declaration, on the basis of the consolidated text of the draft Declaration prepared by the Chair of the Working Group (GT/DADIN/doc.139/03) and considering the proposed Declaration presented by the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (CP/doc.2878/97 corr. 1) and the proposals by member states, representatives of indigenous peoples, specialized organizations of the inter-American system, and other entities.

To this end, the General Assembly requested the Permanent Council to instruct the Working Group to give increased emphasis to the holding of negotiation meetings with a view to the prompt adoption of the American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples and to continue to take the appropriate measures to ensure continuing transparency of, and effective participation by representatives of indigenous peoples in, the negotiation meetings in pursuit of points of consensus.

In that resolution, the General Assembly also invited the member state governments to continue to conduct domestic consultations with their indigenous peoples on the draft Declaration being negotiated in the OAS framework and to exchange information regarding those consultations.

Peoples, which, like Guatemala, covered the costs of lodging, meals, and transportation for indigenous peoples' representatives at the seventh meeting of negotiations.

The fact that member states have invited the Working Group to hold its negotiation meetings in their territories has greatly contributed to the ample participation by indigenous peoples' representatives from different parts of the Hemisphere. The interest expressed by various governments in hosting upcoming negotiation meetings is therefore appreciated.

The Working Group Chair hopes that the 2006-2007 term will see increased contributions by all countries to the Specific Fund, so as to continue strengthening effective and broad participation by indigenous peoples in the drafting of this declaration that is of interest to all of us.

I. BACKGROUND

At its thirty-fifth regular session, the OAS General Assembly adopted resolution AG/RES. 2126 (XXXV-O/05), reaffirming the firm commitment of the Organization of American States to the eradication of racism and all forms of discrimination and intolerance.

In the aforementioned resolution, the General Assembly also instructed the Permanent Council to establish a working group charged with receiving inputs from member state delegations, the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, the Inter-American Court of Human Rights, the Inter-American Juridical Committee, the Justice Studies Center of the Americas (JSCA), interested OAS organs, agencies, and entities, the United Nations, regional organizations, representatives of indigenous peoples, entrepreneurs, labor groups, and civil society organizations, with a view to the Working Group's preparation of a Draft Inter-American Convention against Racism and All Forms of Discrimination and Intolerance.

To this end, the General Assembly requested the Permanent Council to instruct the Working Group to "continue to address, as a matter of priority, the subject of preventing, combating, and eradicating racism and all forms of discrimination and intolerance," and to "convene a special meeting of the Working Group to examine and discuss the nature of a future Inter-American Convention against Racism and All Forms of Discrimination and Intolerance that aims to increase the level of protection afforded to human beings against acts of this type, with a view to reinforcing the international standards now in effect, and taking into account the forms and sources of racism, discrimination, and intolerance in the Hemisphere and those manifestations not addressed in existing instruments on the subject."
