By financing a portion of their studies in the United States, the Rowe Fund helps international students complete their education while fostering cultural diversity, friendship, and communication among the people of the Americas.

According to the Institute of International Education (IIE) - Open Doors report, there were 159 students from Antigua and Barbuda studying in the U.S. during the 2021-22 academic year.

Overall, the number of international students enrolled in U.S. universities was 948,519, with only 77,969 of these from the Caribbean and Latin American region. Within this number, Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela, and Colombia combined represent 54.88% of international students from the region while Antigua and Barbuda represents just 0.20% of all Latin American and Caribbean students in the United States.
