1 BACKGROUND

The Organization of American States (OAS) is a public international organization, with headquarters at 1889 F. St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. The OAS brings together the nations of the Western hemisphere to promote democracy, strengthen human rights, foster peace, security, and cooperation and advance common interests. For more information about the OAS, please refer to the OAS’s website at www.oas.org.

The General Secretariat of the OAS (GS/OAS) is the central and permanent organ of the OAS in accordance with Article 107 of the Charter.

The Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR) is a principal organ of the Organization of American States (OAS) whose function is to promote the observance and defense of human rights in the Americas and to serve as a consultative body of the Organization in this field. It is composed of seven members who are elected by the OAS General Assembly in their capacity and must be persons of high moral authority and recognized expertise in human rights, and has its headquarters in Washington, D.C. The IACHR was created by the OAS in 1959 and the Inter-American Court of Human Rights (IAHR Court) was established in 1979, both of which make up the Inter-American Human Rights System (IAHRS).

The IACHR carries out its functions based on three pillars of work: the system of individual petitions; monitoring the human rights situation in the Member States; and advisory services and technical cooperation with the States. Through this framework, the Commission considers that in the context of the protection of the rights of all persons under the jurisdiction of the States in the Americas, it is essential to pay attention to persons, communities, and groups historically subject to discrimination and exclusion.

The mandate of the IACHR is established in the American Convention on Human Rights (Pact of San José), adopted on November 22, 1969, and entered into force on July 18, 1978. For more information about the IACHR, please refer to the OAS’s website at https://www.oas.org/en/iachr/.

The Inter-American Commission on Human Rights through its Executive Secretary has previously conducted at least two diagnostics on its work environment. The first one was presented in March 2015 and the second one at the end of 2020 and the beginning of 2021. Currently, the ES/IACHR has the findings of both studies that reflect the causes of the historical problems it has been suffering at the structural, conjunctural, and individual levels.

Following its Strategic Plan 2017-2021, the IACHR wishes to have a strategy to implement over the next three years based on a culture of accountability and gender and diversity policies that will allow identifying actions to promote a healthy work environment, with satisfied, committed, and motivated personnel to meet its current institutional challenges, as well as those related to the current context, the thematic priorities of human rights in the region, which are identified as strategic for the development of its mandate. The implementation of this strategy will begin in the second half of 2022 with the actions programmed and approved by the IACHR for the first year of the contract.

The IACHR is composed of 189 members: 7 Commissioners, 1 Executive Secretary, 6 Senior Officers who integrate the Management Team, 16 staff members in charge of Coordination Sections, 65 staff members, 85 consultants, and 10 fellows.

2 OBJECTIVE

The objective of this consultancy is to develop and implement a strategy to improve the work environment and change the organizational culture of the ES/IACHR for the next three years.
