ABOUT THE PARTNER INSTITUTIONS

The General Secretariat of the OAS (GS/OAS) is the central and permanent organ of the Organization of American States.

- Through its Department of Human Development, Education and Employment (DHDEE), GS/OAS supports OAS member States in creating policies and executing programs that promote human capacity development at all educational levels.

- By enabling formative opportunities to citizens, DHDEE strengthens democratic values and security under the framework of regional integration.

The International Labor Organization (ILO) and the Italian Government established the International Training Centre (ITC) in 1964 in Turin, Italy as an advanced vocational training institute.

- It has since then matured into a focal point for high-level in-service training to develop human resources and institutional capabilities, and achieve the ILO’s goal of decent work for women and men.

- A favorable location for relevant study visits in the heart of Europe.

- Advanced training facilities, global scope and multi-cultural learning environment.
ACHIEVEMENTS AND INITIATIVES

The Turin School of Development is a Programme of the International Training Centre of the International Labour Organization (ITC-ILO) created in 2009 in Turin, in collaboration with the University of Turin and the Polytechnic of Turin.

The objective is to provide multi-disciplinary postgraduate learning opportunities with targeted content and effective delivery modalities, conducive to imparting the essential skills required to deal with today’s social, economic and environmental priorities at national and global levels.

The TSD offers 10 Masters in disciplines related to the core mandate of key UN agencies, designed for the benefit of an international audience of future experts and leaders. Each Master provides:

- Intensive delivery that meets the learning requirements of a European Masters degree
- Multi-disciplinary coverage of the full range of technical competencies and professional skills
- The combination of academic resource persons and development practitioners

The key areas of the training disciplines are the most central ones for the main international institutions: sustainable development, poverty reduction and job creation, global trade, good governance, industrial relations, culture and workplace environment.

A full involvement of specialized UN agencies and distinguished professional bodies in programme design, delivery and supervision is an additional strength of these Masters.

Since the first course was organized in 1991, more than 2750 students from all over the world have gained a Master diploma here in Turin. In the 2018–19 academic year, the School enrolled 214 students, comprised of 105 women and 109 men from more than 80 different countries.

TESTIMONIALS FROM CURRENT STUDENTS

“When I applied for the Master in World Heritage and Cultural Projects for Development I had high expectations but no idea that it would have such fast results in my professional life. The quality of the course and the professors was extraordinary and I got much more than I expected. Solid theory and much practice. During the last month of the presential period I decided to apply for a position at Rjukan-Notodden World Heritage site. At all phases of the recruitment process I kept using everything I had learned in the course. In the end I got the job, and today I use my learnings to preserve and develop this site.”~ Ms Juliana Stogan (Portugal), Master in World Heritage and Cultural Projects for Development

“Being a MALED’s student was a wonderful and really intense adventure! The lecturers we had were all experts on their respective fields and took very seriously the objective of deliver a strong learning experience. However, tutors and MALED’s staff are very helpful and supportive, so it becomes easier to overcome any difficulty found during the journey. Last but not least, the contact with classmates from all over the world contributes to make the whole thing more enriching than a mere academic program. So MALED has the characteristic to provide learnings that help people grow both professionally and personally.”~ Mr Alejandro Javier Flores Morán (El Salvador), Master in Labour Economics and Sustainable Development
