I. INTRODUCTION

The 2016 - 2017 Planning Meeting of the Inter-American Conference of Ministers of Labor (IACML) took place on February 25 and 26, 2016 at the headquarters of the OAS in Washington, D.C. with the following objectives: Establish the IACML Calendar of Activities for 2016-2017 to implement the Declaration and Plan of Action of Cancun (XIX IACML); ensure coordination among the main actors of the IACML and define their financial or in-kind contributions; and review the financial situation of the RIAL and decide on the use of contributions received to date. All objectives were fully accomplished.

The meeting was chaired by the Secretariat of Labor and Social Welfare of Mexico, as Chair of the XIX IACML, which was represented by Alejandra Medina, Sub coordinator of Hemispheric Labor Policy, and included the participation of representatives of the Ministries of Labor that lead the IACML process:

- Troika: Mexico (Current Chair - XIX IACML), Colombia (Previous Chair - XVIII IACML), Barbados (Future Chair - XX IACML)
- Authorities from Working Group 1: Brazil (Chair), Chile and Panama (Vice-Chairs)
- Authorities of Working Group 2: Paraguay (Chair), Canada and Costa Rica (Vice-Chairs).

In addition, representatives of United States, Uruguay, El Salvador and Honduras participated as observers.

The Trade Union Technical Advisory Council (COSATE) and the Business Technical Advisory Committee on Labor Matters (CEATAL), as consultative bodies of the IACML, participated in the meeting, as well as authorities of the International Labour Organization (ILO), the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), the Inter-American Conference on Social Security (CISS), the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB), and the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC).

Before the meeting, the Technical Secretariat sent a questionnaire to all the members of the IACML regarding their priorities, expectations and suggestions within the framework of the Conference and its cooperation mechanism, the Inter-American Network for Labor Administration (RIAL), and to guarantee that in developing the Calendar of Activities all of the members' perspectives would be taken into account. The answers received, from 22 Ministries of Labor, COSATE and CEATAL, and compiled in the document "Input for the Planning Meeting 2016-2017 of the IACML" served as a base for discussion.

This document presents the conclusions and results of the Planning Meeting. Other relevant information, including the list of participants and supporting documents, can be found on the Web page: http://www.oas.org/en/sedi/dhdee/labor\_and\_employment/pages/cpo\_trab\_planningmeeting2016-2017.asp

The Workshop followed the mandates 12, 13 and 15 of the Cancun Declaration and the 6) f, g, i of the Action Plan.

Funding sources: The Government of Brazil covered costs of all the logistics, simultaneous interpretation, and a field trip during the event. RIAL allocated $19,000, out of the $25,000 authorized for the event, to support travel for participants from smaller economies, COSATE and CEATAL. The OAS Development Cooperation Fund (DCF) covered airfare tickets for 2 participants.

5.2 Initiatives of International Organizations that Contribute to Fulfilling the Mandates of the IACML

The international organizations partnered with the IACML process shared the following ongoing initiatives and projects, which can contribute to fulfilling the mandates of the XIX IACML. ILO, IDB, ECLAC, PAHO and CISS made presentations during the meeting.

International Labor Organization (ILO)

- ILO presented its three main regional objectives at the moment: Productive Development Policies for inclusive growth for more and better jobs, which coincides with objective 8 of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development; continue efforts to promote formalization; and strengthen respect and enforcement of labor regulations and legislation.
- It highlighted four ways to achieve these priorities: Knowledge generation, technical assistance, strengthening of employers and workers' organizations, and dissemination of required knowledge and experiences.
- ILO highlighted the Program for the Promotion of Formalization in Latin America and the Caribbean (FORLAC), specially its efforts to identify the techniques and policies that have worked (and which ones have not) in order to reduce informality, especially focusing on some countries that are falling behind in this area.
- Regarding their current priorities and actions, the ILO finds that there is strong correlation with the IACML's mandates. Specifically, within the topics of Working Group 1, the ILO can contribute in: the promotion of decent work and full and productive employment within the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development; Integration of labor, productive, and education policies; Policies and programs related to youth employment and the school-to-work transition; technical and professional training; the role of sustainable enterprises to employment and to the protection of labor rights; and the transition from the informal to the formal economy.
- ILO underlined that, in the subject of technical and professional training; it coordinates the Inter-American Centre for Knowledge Development in Vocational Training (CINTERFOR), acting as the center of a knowledge-sharing network between institutions and organisms dedicated to this topic. It also highlighted the studies made in four countries regarding the role of sustainable enterprises in employment and the protection of labor rights.
- With regards to the topics of Working Group 2, the ILO can contribute in: Promoting awareness of the rights of all workers, including migrant workers; enforcement of labor legislation and regulations; Strengthening of social dialogue and collective bargaining mechanisms; Prevention and eradication of child labor and social security.

Pan-American Health Organization (PAHO):

- PAHO highlighted the approval of the 2015-2025 Plan of Action on Worker's Health, which was presented during the XIX IACML in Cancun. The objective of the Plan of Action is to strengthen the intersectoral response to deliver integral attention to worker's health through the execution of updated policies, plans and regulations.
- Their proposals to the IACML include: Develop and update legislation and technical regulations on workers' health; identify, evaluate, prevent, and control hazardous conditions and exposures in the workplace; increase access to and coverage of health services for workers; promote health, well-being, and healthy work in the workplace; strengthen diagnostic capacity, information systems, epidemiological surveillance and research in the field of occupational diseases, injuries, and deaths.
- PAHO proposed joint activities with the IACML, such as the celebration of the World Day for Safety and Health at Work (April 28th) through a Webinar, a joint workshop IACML-OAS-RIAL-PAHO about Occupational Health and Safety, a series of Webinars on health, work and mining, as well as technical assistance from PAHO to countries that request it. The proposal of a joint celebration of the World Day for Safety and Health at Work was accepted.

Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC):

- ECLAC highlighted the document presented during the Regional Conference on Social Development of 2015, which underscores the importance of productive employment and decent work to improve social indicators in the region. It includes policy recommendations to improve coordination between social policies and the labor market.
- Joint project with other United Nations Commissions, which will develop a toolbox on the design and implementation of public policies for equality. It will include an analysis on labor market policies and its role in promoting equality.
- Implementation of diagnostics on national training and formation systems which will highlight strengths and weaknesses, as well as programs on the subject that promotes inclusion. This project is on-going in 5 countries of the region.
- One of the biggest common characteristics between ECLAC and the IACML is the importance given to the link between education and labor. ECLAC is carrying out a project to strengthen this link and promote political dialogue on the subject, with participation of academic, employers and workers' organizations, as well as governments.
- Regarding youth employment, another IACML priority topic, ECLAC highlighted the toolbox "Social Inclusion of youth in the context of increasing violence and insecurity with a focus on Central America", for analysis and policy design; the Youth Observatory for Latin America and the Caribbean, which includes policies and programs relating to this topic; and a study on school to work transition, which highlights similarities and differences between countries.

Inter-American Conference on Social Security (CISS):

- CISS has worked closely with the IACML recently, especially in the development of the study on social security agreements. It concurs with the IACML on the importance of continuing to work on the subject, and reaffirmed its commitment to fulfill mandate 8, f of the Plan of Action of Cancun regarding a database of bilateral and multilateral agreements on social security.
- The next step in supporting the IACML is to work with the OAS on the development of this database, allowing countries to see, transparently, the conventions and administrative agreements on social security.
- CISS is analyzing the creation of the Continuous Reporting System on Social Security in the Americas, which would be done with the OAS and will be used to share up-to-date information on social security indicators in the region.
- CISS offered the IACML its headquarters in Mexico to hold conferences and congresses.

Inter-American Development Bank (IDB):

- IDB shared the three main objectives of its Labor Market Unit. The first two (to Improve Access to Work and to Improve Worker's Career Paths) go hand in hand with Working Group 1 of the IACML, and the third (Improve Access to Social Security), with Working Group 2.
- Regarding Access to Work, the IDB provides technical and financial support to increase coverage of Employment Services and improve training programs. Recently, it published "Jobs for Growth" and "The World of Public Employment Services", which give policy recommendations. It coordinates the Technical Support Network to Employment Services in Latin America and the Caribbean (SEALC Network) and evaluates the impact of specific programs.
- Regarding the improvement of career paths, the IDB provides technical and financial support to improve continuous training systems and to develop instruments to anticipate skills demands.
- Regarding the improvement of access to social security, several recent investigations, the elaboration of the Longitudinal Social Protection Survey (LSPS) and the Social Security Observatory for Latin America and the Caribbean were mentioned. In addition, they highlighted the Network for Pensions in Latin America and the Caribbean (PLAC), which intends to enhance the pension systems in the region and could become a part of the IACML's agenda.
- IDB underlined the Labor and Social Security Information System (SIMS) which contains comparable statistics for 23 countries, institutional information, and academic publications.
