WHERE: Cañizares Meeting Room
Quorum Quito Conference Center
Quito, Ecuador

Join us for the Flyways in the Americas: Strategies for Enhancing Collaboration among Migratory Species Conservation Initiatives throughout the Hemisphere!

Americas' Flyways seeks to harmonize the conservation efforts of governments and all relevant partners and stakeholders to ensure active cooperation among migratory bird instruments, initiatives and partnerships; assess and mitigate significant barriers to migration; foster the conservation of high priority networks of sites and habitats; mitigate impacts of climate change on migratory bird species; enhance and strengthen monitoring; help guide funding to priority needs; and empower local communities to conserve their resources.

The side event will present the Americas Flyways Framework (brief background, and what it seeks to achieve and how), and the Atlantic Flyway Shorebird Business Plan and Partners in Flight as examples of initiatives that can act as an international delivery mechanism for part of the Framework. Lunch will be offered. Please RSVP by October 30th to rhuber@oas.org and lineira@oas.org
