DECLARATION ON INSTITUTIONAL STRENGTHENING
FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN THE AMERICAS

(Adopted at the fourth plenary session, held on June 15, 2016)

THE MINISTERS OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS AND HEADS OF DELEGATION OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE ORGANIZATION OF AMERICAN STATES (OAS), gathered in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, at the forty-sixth regular session of the General Assembly,

REAFFIRMING the nature, purposes, and principles established in the OAS Charter, and the commitments assumed by the member states in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the Addis Ababa Action Agenda, and the Paris Agreement adopted by the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change,^{1/} as well as other international commitments related to the three dimensions of sustainable development:^{2/} economic, social, and environmental;

RECOGNIZING the multidimensional challenges of sustainable development and that the achievement of the 2030 Agenda goals in the region will be driven by institutional strengthening, by the effectiveness, efficiency, transparency, ethics, and credibility of public institutions, with inclusive and participatory decisions, and by intergovernmental, interagency, and intersectoral coordination, in an environment that is safe and enabling for civil society, other social stakeholders, and the public;

MINDFUL of the recognition in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development of the difficulties encountered by middle-income countries and those in special situations in achieving sustainable development, and of the need to promote the sharing of experiences, better coordination, and support by the United Nations development system, international financial institutions, regional organizations, and other stakeholders;

TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION that to achieve sustainable development and attain the goals of the 2030 Agenda, member states also need to strengthen the means of implementation defined therein, as well as the necessary funding, innovation, capacity building, technical assistance, and transfer of technologies, on voluntarily and mutually agreed upon terms and conditions;

BEARING IN MIND the importance of reviewing and updating the Inter-American Program for Sustainable Development (PIDS) and following the commitment contained in the Declaration of Tela for Sustainable Development in the Americas “Building a Sustainable Development Agenda for the Americas,” which adopted the Strategic Framework for the PIDS, to revitalize the efforts being made by the OAS General Secretariat to assist member states’ institutional strengthening processes and support implementation of the 2030 Agenda;

1. The Government of the Republic of Nicaragua cannot endorse the reference to the so-called “Paris Agreement” because irregular procedures were used in its adoption, ...
 2. The international commitments referred to in this paragraph are: United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1992 ...

AWARE of the importance of encouraging dialogue and synergies among governments, civil society organizations, other social stakeholders, the private sector, and public-private partnerships in the process of institutional strengthening for sustainable development in the Americas, and in combating corruption in the public and private sectors to contribute to greater participation and consolidation of democracies in our societies;

TAKING INTO ACCOUNT the Strategic Vision, the strategic objectives of the Organization, the prioritization of mandates by member states, and improved administrative management for institutional strengthening in accordance with the OAS pillars; and

ACKNOWLEDGING that the Earth and its ecosystems are our home, and convinced that in order to achieve a just balance among the economic, social, and environmental needs of present and future generations it is necessary to promote harmony with nature and Mother Earth, which is a common expression for the planet earth in a number of countries and regions,^{3/}

DECLARE THAT THEY:

1. Promote the strengthening and creation, as appropriate, of transparent, effective, responsible, and inclusive institutions at all levels of government that facilitate the achievement of the goals and targets of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the goals of the Paris Agreement, and the Addis Ababa Action Agenda.

2. Adopt a steadfast commitment to implement the 2030 Agenda in the Americas and to attain that Agenda's goals and targets, which are integrated and indivisible in nature; and reaffirm the commitment to, inter alia, eradicate hunger and poverty in all its forms and dimensions—including extreme poverty, combat inequality, protect the environment, manage disaster risks, and fight climate change.

3. Encourage the process underway within the Negotiating Committee of the Regional Agreement on Access to Information, Participation and Justice in Environmental Matters in Latin America and the Caribbean, in order to promote the fulfillment of the commitment acquired in the Declaration on the Application of Principle 10 of the Rio Declaration on the Environment and Development in Latin America and the Caribbean, signed on the occasion of the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development (Rio+20) held in Rio de Janeiro from June 20 to 22, 2012.

4. Encourage models of development and economic growth that are more inclusive, resilient, and sustainable, and include corporate social and environmental responsibility practices in line with the Sustainable Development Goals.

5. Promote a rights-based approach in institutional strengthening processes, including respect for human rights and systems of protection and social promotion of a universal, equitable, and non-discriminatory nature, in order to live well in harmony with nature, while generating conditions to achieve the full development of individuals and allow progress toward more peaceful, just, and

3. Costa Rica, Chile, and Colombia, in this context and in keeping with language previously agreed upon in other international instruments of the United Nations and the inclusive societies conducive to sustainable development that take account of the needs of vulnerable groups.

6. Promote and strengthen the formulation and implementation of public policies, strategies, and actions to foster gender equity and equality and the effective empowerment of women as necessary conditions for the full respect of human rights of all women and girls in all spheres of public and private life; likewise, advance actions and combine efforts in the fight against all forms and manifestations of violence against women, including femicide/femicide, and discrimination against women and girls.

7. Promote actions aimed at ensuring respect for the rights of indigenous peoples, people of African descent, migrants and their families, older persons, and other members of marginalized and vulnerable groups.

8. Encourage professionalization in public administration, the development of a well-trained civil service, and the establishment of modern merit-based management systems for the intake, retention, and development of human resources.

9. Encourage and strengthen high-quality public management that regards individuals as agents of change and is geared to consolidating the institutionalization, coherence, and continuity of public policies in line with the goals and targets set out in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and other international instruments related to development.

10. Promote public management by strengthening the capacities of public institutions as entities responsible for implementing, together with regional and local authorities, policies geared to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals.

11. Promote inclusive, equitable, and quality education as a vital component of the institutional framework required for attaining sustainable development. In that regard, policy dialogue on education should be strengthened.

12. Promote political and institutional coherence, effective interagency coordination and policy linkage, and facilitate synergies between national targets, development plans, public policies, actions, and programs, on one hand, and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in its three dimensions (economic, social, and environmental), on the other, by adopting multi-sector and multidimensional strategies imbued with a comprehensive vision of the sustainable development policies that are to be established in accordance with the capacities, realities, and priorities of each country.

13. Strengthen institutional capacity in each of the branches of government, while respecting their independence and encouraging their contribution to the achievement of just, peaceful, and inclusive societies for sustainable development.

14. Promote permanent, inclusive intercultural dialogue with society, aimed at achieving greater social cohesion and enhancing interagency and intersectoral coordination among public and private entities, civil society, academia, and other social actors for the sustainable development of states.

15. Foster the credibility of—and public trust in—democratic institutions.

16. Promote transparency and accountability and encourage citizen participation and oversight of how the resources of state institutions are managed, by disseminating public information and ensuring that it is properly organized, systematized, and permanently available, so that it is widely and easily accessible to the public, in accordance with constitutional and legal rules, including those governing privacy and confidentiality.

17. Promote the development and application of transparent legal frameworks that take account of collective interests in favor of sustainable development.

18. Affirm their belief in holistically addressing the three dimensions of sustainable development (social, economic, and environmental) through dialogue and other peaceful means of settling disputes and preventing conflicts under a rights-based approach, thereby contributing to democratic governance and the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals.

19. Promote respect for the rule of law at the domestic and international levels, equal access to justice, and implementation, where appropriate, of the Model Inter-American Law on Access to Public Information and the Inter-American Strategy for the Promotion of Public Participation in Decision-making for Sustainable Development for the benefit of current and future generations.

20. Continue to pursue the fight against all forms of corruption in the public and private sectors, promote open government and implementation of the Inter-American Convention against Corruption and its follow-up mechanism, and strengthen the development in member states of mechanisms needed to prevent, detect, punish, and eradicate corruption and impunity, as an imperative for states, in order to attain a decent, dignified, and full life.

21. Promote institutional strengthening through horizontal, South-South, and triangular cooperation actions to jointly address development challenges and the problems of poverty and inequality as well as to strengthen good relations and promote integration among member countries of the Organization of American States (OAS).

22. Emphasize that international public finance plays an important role in complementing the efforts of countries to mobilize public resources domestically, especially in the poorest and most vulnerable countries with limited domestic resources. An important use of international public finance, including official development assistance (ODA), is to catalyze additional resource mobilization from other sources, both public and private. ODA providers reaffirm their respective commitments, including the commitment by many developed countries to achieve the target of 0.7 percent of ODA/GNI to developing countries and 0.15 percent to 0.2 percent of ODA/GNI to least developed countries.

23. Enhance the participation of civil society organizations and other social actors in regional forums such as the OAS, in order to strengthen exchanges of experience and promote their linkage with the governments of the region.

24. Promote the potential of the private sector, of public-private partnerships, and of the specialized investment and financing mechanisms for development and integration already in place in the region, in order to create synergies that will make it feasible to achieve the goals and targets of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

25. Promote training, technological and productive innovation, and technology transfer on voluntarily and mutually agreed upon terms and conditions, as well as actions of corporate social responsibility by enterprises—in particular, small and medium-sized enterprises—and other types of organizations, in order to improve their ability to establish relationships of exchange, with a view to the development of value chains among the region's businesses, which will serve to improve their complementarity and competitiveness.

26. Support the various reform processes aimed at improving and strengthening the effective functioning of the international financial system and its architecture, and foster an inter-American dialogue to address the considerable challenges to sustainable development faced by developing countries, including difficulties in accessing ODA and the fact that some countries are unable to access sufficient affordable financing from other sources to meet their needs, while recognizing that all developing countries, including middle-income countries and countries in special situations, continue to face challenges in the area of sustainable development. Encourage international financial institutions that play an important role in development financing to examine ways to integrate sustainable development goals, targets, and indicators in decision-making on development assistance and financing, and to promote exchanges with all relevant stakeholders in order to improve the multidimensional nature of the indicators that they use to portray a country's level of development.

27. Urge developed countries to fulfill financial commitments on climate change, especially by capitalizing the Green Climate Fund and other alternative sources, in order to attend to the development needs of our region as regards the adoption of climate-change adaptation and mitigation measures.

28. Consolidate regional solidarity for implementing programs through alternative financing mechanisms, within the framework of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

29. Foster, in addition, equitable and universal access to information and communications technologies (ICTs) and to broadband internet in the countries of the Americas, particularly in nations that require crossing third countries to connect to the international fiber-optic network, promoting the efficient use of available resources in the universal services funds, when applicable.

30. Educate and raise the awareness of the public, particularly children and adolescents, about the challenges facing the Americas region with respect to the commitments of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

31. Recognize the centrality of the United Nations system, its agencies, funds, programs, and relevant forums, as a key piece of the international system for supporting member states in the implementation of the 2030 Agenda goals, and the role of the relevant components of that system in following up on that implementation, in order to avoid duplication by different organizations. In addition, OAS member states will revitalize the Global Partnership for Sustainable Development.

32. Support the efforts of small island developing states and of landlocked developing countries through actions to mitigate the effects of disasters, climate change, and epidemics, which pose constant challenges to attaining sustainable development.

33. Promote and support inter-American actions and programs geared toward strengthening institutions and building national capacities, particularly in developing countries and especially in the least developed countries and small island developing states, in order to structure the region's efforts toward implementing the Sustainable Development Goals.

34. Support the OAS Strategic Vision process and the mandate prioritization adopted by the member states, to ensure that the Organization makes an effective contribution to institutional strengthening for sustainable development.

35. Celebrate the adoption of the Inter-American Program for Sustainable Development (PIDS) as an institutional policy instrument approved at the fifth regular meeting of the Inter-American Committee on Sustainable Development (CIDS) and entrust the OAS General Secretariat with its implementation.

36. Instruct the General Secretariat to work on coordinating efforts with member states and regional and international organizations for the implementation of commitments undertaken in the area of sustainable development and climate change.

37. Instruct the General Secretariat, within the framework of its mandates and in coordination with other international and regional entities and organizations, to promote the mobilization of resources and facilitate technical assistance, when so requested by the states, in order to advance the effective implementation of this Declaration.

38. Express appreciation for the recommendations resulting from the dialogue with the representatives of civil society, workers, the private sector, and other social actors, as important contributions to the attainment of the commitments contained in this Declaration.

1. ... given that the position of the most vulnerable countries was not taken into account, and because, on the contrary, the negotiation process was compromised by the failure to recognize the historical responsibility toward the countries suffering the effects of climate change and their indemnification, a position that was backed by Nicaragua and other countries in order to ensure that those states that have caused the climate change problem and are the main emitters of greenhouse gases assume the responsibility of mitigating the harm inflicted on the small countries—such as Nicaragua and other nations in Central America and the Caribbean—that suffer the consequences in the form of droughts, rising sea levels, hurricanes, and other catastrophes.

THE MINISTERS OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS AND HEADS OF DELEGATION OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE ORGANIZATION OF AMERICAN STATES (OAS), gathered in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, at the forty-sixth regular session of the General Assembly,

ACKNOWLEDGING that slavery and the slave trade, particularly the transatlantic slave trade, were appalling episodes in the history of humanity, not only for their abhorrent barbarism but also their magnitude, organized nature, and their negation of the humanity of the victims, and are among the foremost expressions of racism, racial discrimination, and related intolerance, and that Africans and people of African descent were victims of those acts and continue to be victims of their consequences;

BEARING IN MIND that the American Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man provides that all men are born free and equal, in dignity and in rights, without distinction as to race, sex, language, creed or any other factor; the Charter of the OAS establishes recognition of the fundamental rights of the individual without distinction as to race, nationality, creed, or sex as one of the principles of the Organization; the Inter-American Democratic Charter affirms that “[t]he elimination of all forms of discrimination, especially gender, ethnic and race discrimination, as well as diverse forms of intolerance, the promotion and protection of human rights of indigenous peoples and migrants, and respect for ethnic, cultural and religious diversity in the Americas contribute to strengthening democracy and citizen participation”; and the Social Charter of the Americas states that “Member states recognize the contributions of indigenous peoples, afro-descendants, and migrant communities to the historical process of the Hemisphere and will promote recognition of their value”;

RECALLING paragraphs 98 to 106 of the Durban Declaration and, in particular, the importance of the “provision of effective remedies, recourse, redress, and compensatory and other measures at the national, regional and international levels,” aimed at countering the continued impact of slavery and the slave trade,

DECLARE:

That they acknowledge that slavery and the slave trade were appalling crimes in the history of humanity, welcome the Caribbean Community’s initiative to establish its Reparations Commission, and applaud the efforts of that Commission to redress historical injustices.

In accordance with the Caribbean Community's Ten-Point Action Plan for Reparatory Justice, it is important to emphasize that any reference to reparations for African slavery must also incorporate the genocide of native populations or indigenous people.

RECOGNIZING the potential risk that a pandemic due to arthropod-borne viruses, such as Zika virus, would pose to our societies and citizens, with possible severe consequences for human health and the global economy;

MINDFUL that in May 2015, the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), as a specialized health agency of the inter-American system and Regional Office for the Americas of the World Health Organization (WHO), issued an alert regarding the first confirmed Zika virus infection in the region and that on February 1, 2016, the WHO declared the cluster of microcephaly cases and other neurological disorders a public health emergency of international concern;

DEEPLY CONCERNED by the vulnerability of different member states and their populations, particularly pregnant women and women of reproductive age, to a Zika epidemic, due to the absence of a specific treatment and a vaccine;

DECLARATION ON CLIMATE CHANGE, FOOD SECURITY, AND MIGRATION IN THE AMERICAS

(Adopted at the second plenary session, held on June 14, 2016)

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY,

CONSIDERING,

That the Paris Agreement adopted at the twenty-first session of the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change recognizes the need for an effective and progressive response to the urgent threat of climate change on the basis of the best available scientific knowledge;

That United Nations General Assembly resolution 70/1, “Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development,” recognizes the positive contribution of migrants for inclusive growth and sustainable development and seeks among its goals to end hunger, achieve food security and improved nutrition, and promote sustainable agriculture, as well as to take urgent action to combat climate change and its impacts; and

That at the Seventh Summit of the Americas the Heads of State and Government also acknowledged the challenges and serious consequences of climate change for our countries, particularly in the poorest and most vulnerable sectors;

TAKING INTO ACCOUNT:

That United Nations specialized agencies warn that climate change could exacerbate the impact of the El Niño and La Niña phenomena in 2016, affecting countries in the Americas to a high or moderate degree; and that agriculture and food and nutritional security would be hardest hit; and

The evidence gathered by specialized agencies such as the International Organization for Migration, among others, on the effects of natural disasters, environmental degradation, and climate change on human mobility and on food and nutritional security;

MINDFUL that migration is a multidimensional reality involving the various countries of the region and that food and nutritional security has been generally absent from the current debate on migration; and

REITERATING:

The commitments adopted at the Summit of the Americas on Sustainable Development held in Santa Cruz de la Sierra, Bolivia, in 1996, and its Plan of Action; in the Declaration of Santa Cruz + 10; in the Inter-American Program for Sustainable Development (2006–2009), now extended until 2016); and in the Declaration of Santo Domingo for Sustainable Development of the Americas, adopted in the Dominican Republic in 2010; and

That at its 34th session, held in Mexico City, Mexico, from February 29 to March 3, 2016, the FAO Regional Conference for Latin America and Caribbean pointed out the impact of climate change, including the adverse effects on the cyclical phenomenon associated with El Niño, on the agriculture and food panorama, particularly in the Central America Dry Corridor, Haiti, and other island states, as well as the need to address the challenge with an approach that combines short-, medium-, and long-term responses,

DECLARES:

1. The importance of generating awareness about the impact that climate change and the El Niño and La Niña phenomena, among others, could have on the Americas region, particularly in terms of food and nutritional security, displacement, or increased migration flows, and the need for early action and response to prevent humanitarian crises.

2. The importance of the various organs and agencies of the Organization of American States and the inter-American system, regional consultative processes, and multilateral and specialized organizations involved with those issues, doing a thorough and coordinated analysis of possible links between the impacts of climate change, food security, and their effects on the increase in migration flows.

3. The commitment of member states to identifying and mobilizing technical and financial resources in order to strengthen cooperation and adaptive capacity, reduce vulnerability, and enhance resilience, particularly in the countries most affected and in the most vulnerable communities, so as to reduce the adverse effects of climate change and of the El Niño, La Niña, and other phenomena.

4. Its interest in promoting exchanges of experience among member states with respect to social protection programs, mechanisms, public policies on migration and consular cooperation issues, climate change, disaster risk reduction, and other measures being pursued to adapt to, mitigate, and counteract the adverse effects of climate change and its potential impact on food security and migration.

5. That it is appropriate, in the framework of the Inter-American Program for the Promotion and Protection of the Human Rights of Migrants, Including Migrant Workers and Their Families, to request the International Organization for Migration, in coordination with the General Secretariat of the OAS, other international organizations, and civil society and other social actors, to provide assistance to states, when so requested, to fulfill the objectives of this Declaration.

CONSIDERING the need to consolidate medium- and long-term plans, programs, and actions to ensure the full and effective participation and inclusion of persons with disabilities, and that the member states acknowledge the expediency of extending the Decade of the Americas for the Rights and Dignity of Persons with Disabilities (2006-2016) for a period of 10 years in order to attain the expected results,

FOOTNOTES

1. ... American Police Community in June 2011. That document was not negotiated or approved by OAS member states. Moreover, AMERIPOL does not represent the police agencies of all the Hemisphere's countries. Accordingly, a pretense at institutionalization in the Organization cannot be used to impose cooperation with said community. Venezuela supports voluntary cooperation on police matters based on respect for sovereignty, independence, the principle of noninterference, the system of laws, and the institutions of countries. Such cooperation must always be coordinated by and subject to the civilian control of all the OAS member states.

2. ... appropriate organs are the only ones that can set mandates. Therefore, the agreement with AMERIPOL does not constitute a mandate for the member states.

3. ... Nuclear Weapons in Latin America and the Caribbean (Treaty of Tlatelolco) stipulates that it shall not be subject to reservations. Therefore, Mexico's intention in proposing the use of "Interpretive Declarations" in its place seeks to rectify a historical error that undermines the Treaty itself. In that regard, it is also worth noting resolutions CG/E/Res.568 and CG/Res.03/2015 of the Agency for the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons in Latin America and the Caribbean (OPANAL), adopted by all 33 member states of the Agency in November 2014 and 2015, respectively, in which the following language is used: "...with a view to achieving the review or withdrawal of the Interpretive Declarations that States Parties to the Additional Protocols to the Treaty of Tlatelolco made to such instruments."

4. ... Working Group established under UNGA resolution 70/33, however, is neither inclusive nor consensus-based, and such non-consensus efforts will not advance the cause of nuclear disarmament. The United States supports practical steps towards the elimination of nuclear weapons, an approach that has reduced dramatically nuclear arsenals from their Cold War highs and which the United States seeks to build on through negotiations on further reductions, which require a willing partner and a conducive security environment, and through support for the Fissile Material Cutoff Treaty, the Comprehensive Nuclear-Test-Ban Treaty, and nuclear-weapon-free zones.

5. ... weapons destruction since 2003. The United States will continue to support OAS efforts to eliminate the humanitarian threat of all remaining landmines and declare countries "mine-impact-free." In February 2016, President Obama announced that the United States and Norway will lead a Global Demining Initiative for Colombia. The President highlighted his request to Congress for US$21 million to support this initiative. In September 2014 the United States announced that it would align its activities outside the Korean Peninsula with key requirements of the Ottawa Convention. This means the United States will:

- not use anti-personnel landmines (APL) outside the Korean Peninsula;
- not assist, encourage, or induce anyone outside the Korean Peninsula to engage in activity prohibited by the Ottawa Convention; and
- undertake to destroy APL stockpiles not required for the defense of the Korean Peninsula.

Although the United States is not party to the Ottawa Convention, we continue our efforts to diligently pursue material and operational solutions that would be compliant with the Convention and that would ultimately allow us to accede to the Convention while ensuring our ability to meet our alliance commitments to the Republic of Korea.

6. ... Committee on Hemispheric Security held on March 3, 2016:

“The Government of the Republic of Nicaragua acknowledges confidence- and security-building measures as a mechanism that helps to foster an international climate of trust and peace in the region. It agrees that such measures need to be consistent with geographic, political, social, cultural, economic, and technological conditions and realities. In that sense, it is broadly in favor of a confidence-building measure involving the exchange of information related to adopting and adapting provisions under domestic laws that govern processes for obtaining data and information, and exchanges of experience among governments regarding prevention, management of, and protection against cyber threats. Furthermore, the participation of service providers and end-users under this measure should be voluntary and should not entail any obligation for States.”

7. ... from the IADB on February 20, 2014, and, in keeping with the established procedure, its membership of the Board ceased on February 20, 2015. As such, Ecuador cannot be part of any consensus or commitment that the states make on this matter.

8. ... of our states. Nicaragua does not agree that the Inter-American Defense Board should intervene in matters of a military or any other nature that would undermine the sovereignty, independence, institutions, or legal system of a country.

9. ... and performance. The international context in which the IADB was conceived is long gone. Therefore, it should adapt to the new paradigms and times of the Hemisphere. The Government of Venezuela reiterates that the IADB's activities should be confined to the competencies specifically established in its Statutes, and it should refrain from intervening in matters of a military or other nature that undermine the peace, sovereignty, independence, freedom, the principle of noninterference, territorial integrity, self-determination, system of laws, and institutions of states, which are fundamental elements for the peaceful coexistence of nations.

10. ... the Inter-American Defense Board has ceased to have any validity and does not contribute to the priorities of the member states or of the OAS. Accordingly, an agency that is simply a drain on the Organization's financial resources should not continue to be maintained.

AG/RES. 2881 (XLVI-O/16)

ADVANCING HEMISPHERIC INITIATIVES ON INTEGRAL DEVELOPMENT

(Adopted at the second plenary session, held on June 14, 2016)

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY,

REAFFIRMING:

That the Charter of the Organization of American States proclaims the essential purposes of the Organization, which include “to promote, by cooperative action, their economic, social, and cultural development” and “to eradicate extreme poverty, which constitutes an obstacle to the full democratic development of the peoples of the hemisphere”;

That the Inter-American Democratic Charter and the Social Charter of the Americas recognize that development with equity strengthens and consolidates democracy, since the two are interdependent and mutually reinforcing;

That the Inter-American Democratic Charter states that “[d]emocracy is essential for the social, political, and economic development of the peoples of the Americas,” and that “[p]overty, illiteracy, and low levels of human development are factors that adversely affect the consolidation of democracy”;

That the Social Charter of the Americas underscores “the determination and commitment of member states to urgently combat the serious problems of poverty, social exclusion, and inequity that affect, in varying degrees, the countries of the Hemisphere; to confront their causes and consequences; and to create more favorable conditions for economic and social development with equity to promote more just societies”; and

That the Social Charter of the Americas highlights that “[t]he individual is at the center, as principal participant and beneficiary, of an inclusive, just, and equitable economic development process”;

TAKING INTO ACCOUNT that the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development was adopted in the framework of the United Nations as a plan of action for people, planet, and prosperity; that also seeks to strengthen universal peace in larger freedom; and that recognizes that eradicating poverty in all its forms and dimensions, including extreme poverty, is the greatest global challenge and an indispensable requirement for sustainable development;

RECALLING the Summit of the Americas^{1/} process and the mandates on integral development agreed upon by the Heads of State and Government;^{2/}

1. The Government of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela reiterates its reservations to the FTAA, as formulated in the declarations and plans of action of the Summits of the Americas...
 2. The Government of the Republic of Nicaragua does not agree with the references to mandates, decisions, and initiatives arising from the Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Summits of the Americas ...

RECALLING ALSO that the Statutes of the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI) provide that the purpose of CIDI is “to promote partnership for development among the member states of the OAS for the furtherance of their integral development and, in particular, to help eliminate poverty” and that “[i]t achieves its objectives through the implementation of the Strategic Plan for Integral Development”;

HAVING SEEN the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development 2006-2009, whose term was extended until December 31, 2016, by resolution AG/RES. 2874 (XLV-O/15);

TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION the declarations and plans of action of the meetings of ministers and high-level authorities within the framework of CIDI in the areas of sustainable development, social development, culture, education, science and technology, labor, and tourism, as well as the meetings of high-level authorities responsible for cooperation; and

RECALLING General Assembly resolution AG/RES. 2874 (XLV-O/15) “Advancing Hemispheric Initiatives on Integral Development”;

I. CURRENT MANDATES IN THE AREA OF INTEGRAL DEVELOPMENT

CONSIDERING resolution CP/RES. 1061 (2063/16), “Conclusion of the Mandate Prioritization Process and Preparation of the Organization’s Four-year Strategic Plan,” and the conclusion of the technical-methodological process of the Ad Hoc Working Group on the Strategic Vision of the OAS, which incorporated 80 mandates as a result of the application of the first criterion of the Methodology for the Prioritization of Mandates;

Continuing Participation in the Inter-American Council for Integral Development by Member States that have not Ratified the Protocol of Managua

HAVING SEEN resolution AG/RES. 2 (XXII-E/96), “Participation of Member States That Have Not Ratified the Protocol of Managua in the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI) When Said Protocol Enters into Force,” as well as resolution AG/RES. 2636 (XLI-O/11), “Continuing Participation in the Inter-American Council for Integral Development by Member States That Have Not Ratified the Protocol of Managua”;

EMPHASIZING the amendments made to the Charter of the Organization of American States to incorporate the elimination of extreme poverty as a basic objective of integral development (Protocol of Washington) and to establish an Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI) to promote cooperation among the American states for the purpose of achieving their integral development and, in particular, helping to eliminate extreme poverty (Protocol of Managua); and

CONSIDERING that as of the date of this resolution there are still member states that have not ratified the Protocol of Managua,

RESOLVES:

1. To urge those member states that have signed but not ratified the Protocol of Washington—which incorporates the elimination of extreme poverty as a basic objective of development—and the Protocol of Managua—which establishes the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI)—to consider doing so as soon as possible.

2. To extend the period during which resolution AG/RES. 2 (XXII-E/96), “Participation of Member States That Have Not Ratified the Protocol of Managua in the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI) When Said Protocol Enters into Force,” will remain in force until the fifty-first regular session of the General Assembly to be held in 2021, which will review the situation if at that time there are still member states that have not ratified the Protocol of Managua.

3. To request the Executive Secretariat for Integral Development to undertake outreach and awareness-raising efforts on the importance of ratifying the instruments referred to in operative paragraph 1 above, and report to CIDI annually for such time as this resolution remains in force.

II. STRENGTHENING THE INTER-AMERICAN COUNCIL FOR INTEGRAL DEVELOPMENT: POLICY DIALOGUE AND PARTNERSHIP FOR DEVELOPMENT COOPERATION

Policy dialogue in the framework of the Inter-American Council for Integral Development

RECOGNIZING the progress made by the member states in the process of reflection and consultation to strengthen CIDI and its subsidiary organs over the past three years, as described in the “Report of the Chair of the CIDI Working Group to Strengthen CIDI and its Organs” (CIDI/doc.200/16), in accordance with the tasks assigned in its work plan (CIDI/GT/FORCIDI/doc.91/13); and bearing in mind the OAS General Assembly mandates regarding the processes in relation to the Strategic Vision, mandate prioritization, management modernization, and reorganization of the General Secretariat, as well as the Charter of the Organization of American States, the Inter-American Democratic Charter, and the Social Charter of the Americas and its Plan of Action, and the commitments assumed by member states of the Organization at the global level, such as the 2030 Agenda and its Sustainable Development Goals; and,

CONSIDERING that the Working Group to Strengthen CIDI and its Organs has identified five main areas of action for strengthening CIDI: (a) Substantive political dialogue, (b) Predictable and organized sectoral dialogue processes, (c) Mandate implementation and follow-up, (d) Intersectoral cooperation, and (e) Cooperation projects,

RESOLVES:

A. Substantive political dialogue

4. To establish the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) as the general framework for the work of CIDI and its organs. This alignment must be reflected in the work plan for the integral development pillar of the Four-Year Comprehensive Strategic Plan for the Organization,^{3/} whose development was entrusted by the OAS General Assembly in resolution AG/RES. 1 (XLVII-E/14), “Guidelines and Objectives of the Strategic Vision of the Organization of American States.”

B. Predictable and organized sectoral dialogue processes:

5. To request that CIDI, with the support of the Executive Secretariat for Integral Development (SEDI) and with the aim of enhancing the predictability, effectiveness, and efficiency of sectoral processes in the framework of that Council, including the preparation of ministerial meetings and meetings of the inter-American committees, adopt the following measures before the next OAS General Assembly:

- i. Define a schedule for sectoral ministerial meetings and meetings of CIDI inter-American committees to be held over the next four years, taking into account the available resources of the Organization. In addition, as part of that scheduling and in order to foster synergies among those processes, to consider holding an annual meeting of CIDI with the participation of the officers of CIDI’s different sectoral processes;
- ii. Establish guidelines for the format of CIDI ministerial meetings so that they better respond to the expectations of sectoral authorities and guarantee a substantive political dialogue;
- iii. Establish general guidelines for the preparation of draft agendas for ministerial meetings, so that they take into account the OAS Four-year Strategic Plan and the work plan for the integral development pillar once approved, the topics proposed by the governments of the member states, the relevant mandates of the General Assembly, and decisions adopted by CIDI in previous sectoral meetings; and,
- iv. Establish general guidelines on preparing working documents and on drafting mandates to be adopted at ministerial meetings and meetings of the inter-American committees to ensure that they reflect the available resources, capacity, and experience of the OAS, and facilitate accountability and their follow-up. Prior to being submitted to the CIDI officers for consideration, all mandates with financial implications must be cost-accounted, include their source(s) of funding, and abide by the OAS Four-year Strategic Plan and the work plan for the integral development pillar, as well as applicable instructions of the General Assembly and the Permanent Council, including those envisaged in the OAS Strategic Vision regarding the inclusion of new integral development mandates for the General Secretariat.

3. The “four-year comprehensive strategic plan” referred to in resolution AG/RES. 1 (XLVII-E/14) is the same as the “Four-year Strategic Plan” mentioned in resolution CP/RES. 1061 (2063/16).

6. To request CIDI to include, as part of all ministerial processes, a planning meeting with its last, current, and forthcoming officers, to set an implementation timetable for ministerial agreements.

7. To request CIDI to conclude its analysis of the proposal to replace the structure based on inter-American committees for working groups no later than February 15, 2017. Once this analysis is concluded, to standardize the rules of procedure of the agreed mechanism before the forty-seventh regular session of the OAS General Assembly.

C. Mandate implementation and follow-up

8. To request CIDI to integrate the topics of ministerial and inter-American committee meetings in its regular meetings and, to that end, to request the Secretariat to provide at the beginning of the term of each CIDI Chair a list of the topics considered by member states in recent ministerial processes, so that they are included in the Chair's work plan.

D. Intersectoral cooperation

9. To request that CIDI, by December 31, 2016, implement coordination mechanisms within that Council, so that open channels of communication and consultation exist between CIDI ministerial meetings, the inter-American committees, the Inter-American Agency for Cooperation and Development (IACD), and other multilateral organizations and agencies, in order that CIDI's work is centered on the activities defined in the OAS Four-year Strategic Plan and the work plan for the integral development pillar once they are approved. Similarly, to request SEDI to promote coordination among its departments with other areas of the Secretariat, and with the permanent missions to the OAS in order to facilitate a systematic, orderly and timely flow of information.

E. Cooperation projects

10. To request SEDI to promote crosscutting coordination between its Technical Cooperation Section and all its departments, in order to coordinate the design and implementation of the cooperation programs and projects carried out by SEDI with financing from the Development Cooperation Fund (DCF/OAS). In that regard, to request SEDI to strengthen coordination between all areas of this Secretariat and the permanent missions to the OAS and to facilitate access for member states to information on OAS projects and programs in the area of integral development.

Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development

TAKING INTO ACCOUNT:

That the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development, referenced in the OAS Charter, is essential for coordinating policies, programs, and measures for action in the area of partnership for integral development, in the framework of the general policy and priorities defined by the General Assembly as well as mandates from CIDI, including from its sectoral meetings of ministers and high-level authorities; and

That the Statutes of CIDI stipulate that the Strategic Plan “shall have a four-year planning target period, subject to adjustment when the General Assembly considers it appropriate” and instruct CIDI to formulate and recommend the Strategic Plan to the General Assembly and to examine and, if appropriate, adopt proposals for preparing and updating the Strategic Plan; and

RECOGNIZING that resolution AG/RES. 1 (XLVII-E/14) “Guidelines and Objectives of the Strategic Vision of the Organization of American States,” instructed the Permanent Council to develop a four-year comprehensive strategic plan with work plans for each of the four pillars, and for administration and institution-building; and that Permanent Council resolution CP/RES. 1061 (2063/16) states that “[f]ollowing the adoption of the Four-year Strategic Plan, the General Secretariat shall adapt its plans and programs and its planning, operational, and evaluation strategies for the purposes of implementing the Plan of the Organization,”

RESOLVES:

11. To extend the life of the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development 2006–2009 until the Four-year Strategic Plan of the OAS and the work plan for the integral development pillar are adopted.

Inter-American Agency for Cooperation and Development

CONSIDERING that resolution AG/RES. 2817 (XLIV-O/14), “Strengthening the Inter-American Council for Integral Development: Policy Dialogue and Partnership for Development Cooperation,” adopted the “Guidelines for the Strengthening of the Various Modalities of Cooperation for Development” (CIDI/doc.95/14), which considered it appropriate to review the Statutes of the Inter-American Agency for Cooperation and Development and the Rules of Procedure of its Management Board,

RESOLVES:

1. ... (paragraph 15 of the Declaration of Quebec City and paragraph 6.A of the Plan of Action, and paragraph 12 of the Declaration of Nuevo León), as well as in resolution AG/RES. 2014 (XXXIV-O/04), “Trade and Integration in the Americas,” and prior resolutions with the same title, as well as in the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development. The content of this footnote applies to all mentions of the Summits of the Americas process and of the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development included in this resolution.

2. ... because on those occasions the Heads of State and Government did not adopt the political declarations that contained the mandates and the operative paragraphs on the core themes that were part of those political declarations.

4. ... the Government of Japan for hosting the conference and for providing invaluable leadership in efforts to address disaster risk reduction. The United States was a strong supporter of the Hyogo Framework for Action and will continue to participate actively in global efforts to reduce the risk of disasters, consistent with the core principle of disaster risk reduction that gives each state the primary responsibility for taking effective measures to reduce disaster risk. The United States, nonetheless, is obliged to reiterate its concerns about the Sendai Framework that we expressed in our Explanation of Position of March 18, 2015, dissociating from certain paragraphs in the Sendai Framework that contain elements that distract from our collective efforts to address disaster risk reduction. The United States continues to dissociate from those paragraphs. In particular, concerning the transfer of technology, the United States supports a broad range of initiatives and mechanisms that provide technical assistance—including through the transfer of technology—to developing countries. However, we maintain that the transfer of technology must not be coerced and that the rights of private holders of intellectual property must not be abrogated. As such, we underscore our view that the present framework does not change the obligations of countries under national law and relevant international agreements. The language on technology transfer in this framework cannot serve as a precedent for future negotiated documents, including any documents relating to the Sustainable Development Goals or the Conference of the Parties of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, or any other negotiation in or outside the UN system.

1. ... given that the position of the most vulnerable countries was not taken into account, and because, on the contrary, the negotiation process was compromised by the failure to recognize the historical responsibility toward the countries suffering the effects of climate change and their indemnification, a position that was backed by Nicaragua and other countries in order to ensure that those states that have caused the climate change problem and are the main emitters of greenhouse gases assume the responsibility of mitigating the harm inflicted on the small countries—such as Nicaragua and other nations in Central America and the Caribbean—that suffer the consequences in the form of droughts, rising sea levels, hurricanes, and other catastrophes.

2. ... because on those occasions the Heads of State and Government did not adopt the political declarations that contained the mandates and the operative paragraphs on the core themes that were part of those political declarations.

INTER-AMERICAN PROGRAM FOR SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT (PIDS) 2016-2021

(Adopted at the third plenary session, held on June 3, 2016)

1. BACKGROUND

The member states of the Organization of American States (OAS) have recognized that sustainable development requires an approach that integrates its three dimensions—the economic, social, and environmental—in order to move forward in a balanced way to support development, eradicate poverty, and promote equality, fairness, and social inclusion. OAS member states have reiterated their support for sustainable development in numerous General Assembly resolutions as well as in national, subregional, regional, and international commitments that they have adopted.

AG/RES. 1440 (XXVI-O/96), “Sustainable Development,” took note of “[t]he importance of sustainable development as a conceptual framework within which the Organization of American States (OAS) should work both as a forum for concerted action and for technical cooperation.”

In September 2015, member states adopted in the United Nations framework the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the new Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which are global in scope. Those goals went into effect on January 1, 2016. States committed to working for the full implementation of the 17 SDGs and their targets, which are “integrated and indivisible and balance the three dimensions of sustainable development: the economic, social and environmental.”

Consistent with the “Strategic Framework for the Inter-American Program for Sustainable Development (PIDS)” (CIDI/RIMDS-III/doc.6/15) adopted in Tela, Honduras, the Executive Secretariat for Integral Development (SEDI) should continue supporting efforts of member states to meet the goals and targets agreed upon in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (resolution 70/1); the Addis Ababa Action Agenda (resolution 69/313); the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC); the Paris Agreement (FCCC/CP/2015/L.9), adopted at the twenty-first session of the Conference of the Parties of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (COP21); and the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction 2015–2030 (resolution 69/283).

Purpose of the PIDS

The Inter-American Program for Sustainable Development (PIDS) establishes strategic actions to ensure that the work of the General Secretariat on sustainable development is aligned with the implementation in the Hemisphere of the 2030 Agenda on Sustainable Development and the Paris Agreement on climate change, and that its objectives and results are guided by the SDGs approved by member states and contribute to their attainment. The implementation of those strategic actions by the General Secretariat will be carried out at the request of member states.

In establishing the PIDS, the General Assembly emphasized the importance of ensuring that the role of the OAS, in implementing all aspects of the PIDS should be consistent with, and complementary to, those of other relevant regional and multilateral entities, particularly the United Nations.

2. MANDATE AND CONTEXT

The objectives of the PIDS are based on the decisions of the Summits of the Americas;^{1/} resolutions of the General Assembly, the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI), and the Inter-American Committee on Sustainable Development (CIDS); and, in particular, the Declaration of Tela for Sustainable Development in the Americas and the Strategic Framework for the PIDS, which were adopted at the Third Inter-American Meeting of Ministers and High-Level Authorities on Sustainable Development, held in Tela, Honduras, in October 2015.

The PIDS seeks to focus on the comparative advantage of the OAS and steer the Organization toward areas where, in the opinion of the member states, opportunities exist for action to complement the efforts of the states themselves, as well as the efforts of other international organizations and institutions, particularly those operating within the Hemisphere. The PIDS also responds to the call from the United Nations to regional organizations for cooperation in the implementation and follow-up of the 2030 Agenda.

3. DEFINING THE STRATEGIC FRAMEWORK

The goal of the PIDS is to support OAS member states that so request in their efforts to achieve sustainable development in its three dimensions—the economic, social, and environmental—including their policies for eradicating poverty, particularly extreme poverty.

The PIDS is guided by resolution 66/288, “The future we want,” and resolution 70/1 “Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.”

In line with its capacity and resources, the OAS General Secretariat will also support member states that so request in their efforts to advance the implementation of the commitments assumed by each state under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and the Paris Agreement on climate change, adopted by COP21, recognizing that the Convention is the primary international intergovernmental forum for negotiating the global response to climate change. Climate change is one of the crosscutting core themes of the strategic areas identified in the PIDS.

The PIDS will support actions in the following strategic areas:

1. Disaster risk management;
2. Sustainable management of ecosystems;
3. Integrated water resources management;
4. Sustainable cities and communities;
5. Sustainable energy management, prioritizing the promotion of clean, renewable, environmentally sustainable energy and energy efficiency;

INTER-AMERICAN PROGRAM FOR THE PROMOTION AND PROTECTION OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS OF MIGRANTS, INCLUDING MIGRANT WORKERS AND THEIR FAMILIES

(Adopted by the General Assembly at the second plenary session, held on June 14, 2016)

I. INTRODUCTION

A. Program Background

In the Plan of Action of the Third Summit of the Americas, adopted in Quebec City, Canada, in April 2001, the Heads of State and Government declared that they would “[e]stablish an inter-American program within the OAS for the promotion and protection of the human rights of migrants, including migrant workers and their families.”

The General Assembly of the Organization of American States (OAS) adopted resolutions AG/RES. 1928 (XXXIII-O/03) and AG/RES. 2027 (XXXIV-O/04), “The Human Rights of All Migrant Workers and Their Families.” The latter resolution instructed the Permanent Council to renew the mandate of the Working Group of the Committee on Juridical and Political Affairs (CAJP) to prepare an inter-American program so that, as soon as possible, it might draft the proposed Inter-American Program, starting from the draft presented by the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights and the proposals of member states, specialized organizations, and other bodies, in accordance with the mandate of the Third Summit of the Americas.

At its thirty-fifth regular session, the General Assembly adopted resolution AG/RES. 2141 (XXXV-O/05), “Inter-American Program for the Promotion and Protection of the Human Rights of Migrants, Including Migrant Workers and Their Families.”

Pursuant to resolution AG/RES. 2738 (XLII-O/12), “Strengthening the Topic of Migration in the OAS: Establishment of the Committee on Migration Issues,” the Committee on Migration Issues (CAM) was created as a permanent committee of the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI) of the OAS with the mandate to function as the principal forum in the Organization charged with migration issues.

That resolution also instructed the CAM to review, implement, and monitor the Inter-American Program for the Promotion and Protection of the Human Rights of Migrants, Including Migrant Workers and Their Families with a view to optimizing its objectives, and to present a report that reflected the results obtained during these processes.

To fulfill that mandate, the CAM, in keeping with its Work Plan contained in document CIDI/CAM/doc.1/12, created the Informal Working Group to Review the Inter-American Program for the Promotion and Protection of the Human Rights of Migrants, Including Migrant Workers and Their Families.

II. CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

In recent decades, the scope, prevalence, and significance of the migration phenomenon have turned virtually every state in the Americas into a country of origin, destination, transit, and return for migrants. As a direct result, migration has become a priority on the political and diplomatic agenda in the region. Violence and disparities in standards of living, including social and employment benefits, are factors that are related to migratory flows in the region.

There is recognition of the close connection between economic development and human mobility in countries of origin, destination, transit, and return. There is, likewise, recognition that migratory flows have long had social, political, cultural, and economic consequences for countries of origin, destination, and, to a lesser degree, transit. The impact of migrant workers on local labor markets, integration of migrant populations in receiving countries, return migration, the macroeconomic effect of remittances, and other factors, have spurred interest in addressing this complex issue. Furthermore, phenomena associated with migration, such as migrant smuggling and trafficking in persons, violations and abuses of and threats to human rights; criminalization and stigmatization of persons residing in border areas, and the humanitarian crisis of unaccompanied migrant children and adolescents, are issues that demand special attention from the countries in our region.

The countries of the Hemisphere recognize the right of any individual to leave any country, including their own, and to return to their country, and are interested in optimizing cooperation procedures and practices to facilitate safe, orderly, and regular migration, including labor mobility, in order to maximize the migration phenomenon's positive impacts, while mitigating its hardships. The quantitative and qualitative impacts stemming from migration demand and require greater international cooperation in order to ensure that migratory policies respect and protect migrants' human rights.

The Program will specifically promote a human-rights, gender, and cultural-diversity approach as well as respect for migrants and their families. Given the diverse causes of migration, be they humanitarian, employment-related, or for purposes of reunification, among others, it is recognized that there are mixed migratory flows that include different kinds of migrants. The Program will incorporate a crosscutting gender approach that explores and assesses gender differences in migratory patterns.

The program will also address the relationship between migration and development, taking into account the close ties between migration and the issues of work, health, education, culture, and economic development projects in migrants' communities of origin, among other areas. This approach complements the vision of strengthening member states' capacities to assist holistically in identifying the challenges and opportunities that migration entails. The goals of promoting and protecting the human rights of migrants are compatible with each OAS member state's sovereign rights to control its borders and enforce its laws. The Program therefore acknowledges the right of states to regulate the entry and stay of foreigners in their territories and to determine the status of migrants and the effect of that status within the domestic political, legal, economic, and educational systems of receiving countries, as well as access to government services and benefits, in accordance with the legal framework of each country.

States' regulation of the entry and stay of foreigners in their territories must be consistent with applicable international law, including human rights and refugee treaties to which they are parties, and give special attention to unaccompanied migrant children, given their high vulnerability. Nevertheless, consideration should also be given to the emergence of troubling developments in relation to migration, such as the adoption of measures that tend to criminalize migrants.

This Program is structured on the basis of general and specific objectives. In order to attain said objectives, activities to be undertaken by the Program actors (i.e., organs, agencies, and entities of the OAS) and member states are identified. Implementers, with whom cooperation is recommended, such as multilateral organizations and civil society, including migrants themselves and migrant workers and their families, are likewise identified. The beneficiaries of the Program are migrants, including migrant workers and their families, temporary residents,^{1/} and the states.

The activities the Program assigns to the organs, agencies, and entities of the OAS stem from existing programs and activities. Subsequently, others will be added when those bodies identify them. In the case of the states, the Program suggests activities for their consideration. The Program also recommends activities that may be undertaken in collaboration with civil society organizations and other social actors that work in human rights, migration, and development, as well as with migrant organizations. Furthermore, the Program includes the activities being carried out by the Inter-American Institute of Human Rights (IIHR) in keeping with its own mandate.

The above activities may be undertaken gradually and flexibly, taking into account existing financial and human resources. Furthermore, the activities envisaged under this Program may be reviewed periodically by the CAM, which is responsible for coordinating and following up on the Program.

The Program envisages a series of measures to facilitate its follow-up, measure progress, facilitate the exchange of best practices, and take advantage of updates and new developments that may occur at the regional and international levels, according to the section "Program follow-up activities."

AG/RES. 2888 (XLVI-O/16)

AMERICAN DECLARATION ON THE RIGHTS OF INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

(Adopted at the third plenary session, held on June 15, 2016)

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY,

RECALLING the contents of resolution AG/RES. 2867 (XLIV-O/14), “Draft American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples,” as well as all previous resolutions on this issue;

RECALLING ALSO the declaration “Rights of the Indigenous Peoples of the Americas” [AG/DEC. 79 (XLIV-O/14)], which reaffirms that progress in promoting and effectively protecting the rights of the indigenous peoples of the Americas is a priority for the Organization of American States;

RECOGNIZING the valuable support provided by the member states, observer states, and the organs, agencies, and entities of the Organization of American States for the process in the Working Group to Prepare the Draft American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples;

RECOGNIZING ALSO the important participation of indigenous peoples of the Americas in the process of preparing this Declaration; and

TAKING INTO ACCOUNT the significant contribution that the indigenous peoples of the Americas have made to humanity,

RESOLVES:

To adopt the following Draft American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples:^{1/2/}

1. The United States remains committed to addressing the urgent issues of concern to indigenous peoples across the Americas, including combating societal discrimination against indigenous peoples and...

1. ... individuals, increasing indigenous participation in national political processes, addressing lack of infrastructure and poor living conditions in indigenous areas, combating violence against indigenous women and girls, promoting the repatriation of ancestral remains and ceremonial objects, and collaborating on issues of land rights and self-governance, among many other issues. The multitude of ongoing initiatives with respect to these topics provides avenues for addressing some of the consequences of past actions. The United States has, however, persistently objected to the text of this American Declaration, which is not itself legally binding, does not, therefore, create new law, and is not a statement of Organization of American States (OAS) member states' obligations under treaty or customary international law.

The United States reiterates its longstanding belief that implementation of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples ("UN Declaration") should remain the focus of the OAS and its member states. OAS member states joined other UN Member States in renewing their political commitments with respect to the UN Declaration at the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples in September 2014. The important and challenging initiatives underway at the global level to realize the respective commitments in the UN Declaration and the outcome document of the World Conference are appropriately the focus of the attention and resources of States, indigenous peoples, civil society, and international organizations, including in the Americas. In that regard, the United States intends to continue its diligent and proactive efforts, which it has undertaken in close collaboration with indigenous peoples in the United States and many of its fellow OAS member states, to promote achievement of the ends of the UN Declaration, and to promote fulfillment of the commitments in the World Conference outcome document. Of final note, the United States reiterates its solidarity with the concerns expressed by indigenous peoples concerning their lack of full and effective participation in these negotiations.

2. ... in full partnership with indigenous peoples in Canada, to move forward with the implementation of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples in accordance with Canada's Constitution. As Canada has not participated substantively in recent years in negotiations on the American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, it is not able at this time to take a position on the proposed text of the Declaration. Canada is committed to continue working with its partners in the OAS on advancing indigenous issues across the Americas.

1. ... indigenous communities' free, prior and informed consent before adopting and enforcing legislative or administrative measures that could affect them.

This is because Colombian law defines such communities' right to prior consultation in accordance with Convention No. 169 of the International Labour Organization. Thus, the Colombian Constitutional Court has ruled that the consultation process must be pursued "with the aim of reaching an agreement or securing the consent of indigenous communities regarding the proposed legislative measures." It must be noted that this does not translate into the ethnic communities having the power of veto over measures affecting them directly whereby such measures cannot proceed without their consent; instead, it means that following a disagreement "formulas for consensus-building or agreement with the community" must be presented.

Moreover, the Committee of Experts of the ILO has established that prior consultation does not imply the right to veto State decisions, but is, rather, a suitable mechanism for indigenous and tribal peoples to enjoy the right of expression and of influencing the decision-making process.

Accordingly, on the understanding that this Declaration's approach to prior consent is different and could amount to a possible veto, in the absence of an agreement, which could bring processes of general interest to a halt, the contents of this article are unacceptable to Colombia.

2. ... indigenous communities' free, prior and informed consent before approving projects that could affect their lands or territories and other resources.

This is because, although the Colombian State has included in its legal order a wide range of rights intended to recognize, guarantee, and uphold the constitutional rights and principles of pluralism and ethnic and cultural diversity in the nation within the framework of the Constitution, the recognition of the collective rights of indigenous peoples is governed by legal and administrative provisions, in line with the objectives of the State and with principles such as the social and ecological function of property as well as State ownership of the subsoil and nonrenewable natural resources.

Accordingly, in those territories indigenous peoples exercise their own political, social, and judicial organization. By constitutional mandate, their authorities are recognized as public State authorities with special status and, as regards judicial matters, recognition is given to the special indigenous jurisdiction, a significant advance compared to other countries of the region.

In the international context, Colombia has led the way in enforcing the rules governing prior consultation set out in Convention No. 169 of the International Labour Organization (ILO), to which our State is a party.

On the understanding that this Declaration's approach to prior consent is different and could amount to the possibility of vetoing the exploitation of natural resources found in indigenous territories, in the absence of an agreement, which could halt processes of general interest, the contents of this article are unacceptable to Colombia.

In addition, it is important to note that the constitutions of many States, including Colombia's, stipulate that the subsoil and nonrenewable natural resources are the property of the State to preserve and ensure their public usefulness for the benefit of the entire nation. For that reason, the provisions contained in this article are contrary to the domestic legal order of Colombia, based on the national interest.

3. ... Constitution of Colombia, the security forces are obliged to be present in any part of the nation's territory to provide and ensure for all inhabitants protection and respect for their lives, honor, and property, whether individual or collective. The protection of the rights and integrity of indigenous communities depends largely on the security of their territories.

Thus, in Colombia the security forces have been given instructions to observe the obligation of protecting indigenous peoples. Accordingly, the above provision of the American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples would be in breach of the principle of need and effectiveness of the security forces, preventing them from fulfilling their institutional mission, which renders it unacceptable to Colombia.

NOTES OF INTERPRETATION OF THE DELEGATION OF COLOMBIA

INTERPRETATIVE NOTE No. 1
OF THE STATE OF COLOMBIA WITH RESPECT TO ARTICLE VIII OF THE AMERICAN
DECLARATION ON THE RIGHTS OF INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

As regards Article VIII, on the right to belong to indigenous peoples, Colombia expressly declares that the right to belong to one or more indigenous peoples is to be governed by the autonomy of each indigenous people.

The foregoing is in accordance with Article 8, paragraph 2 of Convention No. 169 of the International Labour Organization (ILO): “These peoples shall have the right to retain their own customs and institutions, where these are not incompatible with fundamental rights defined by the national legal system and with internationally recognised human rights. Procedures shall be established, whenever necessary, to resolve conflicts which may arise in the application of this principle.”

It is important to specify that when a person shares different indigenous origins—in other words, when, for instance, his or her mother belongs to one ethnic group and his or her father belongs to another—his or her belonging to one or another of those indigenous peoples may only be defined according to the traditions involved. In other words, to determine an individual’s belonging to a given indigenous people, the cultural patterns that determine family ties, authority, and ethnic attachment must be examined on a case-by-case basis.

A case of contact between two matrilineal traditions is not the same as a contact between a matrilineal tradition and a patrilineal one. Similarly, the jurisdiction within which the individual lives, the obligations arising from the regime of rights contained in that jurisdiction, and the socio-geographical context in which he or she specifically carries out his or her everyday cultural and political activities must be established.

The paragraph to which this note refers is transcribed below:

ARTICLE VIII
RIGHT TO BELONG TO INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

“Indigenous individuals and communities have the right to belong to one or more indigenous peoples, in accordance with the identity, traditions, customs, and systems of belonging of each people. No discrimination of any kind may arise from the exercise of such a right.”

INTERPRETATIVE NOTE No. 2
OF THE STATE OF COLOMBIA WITH RESPECT TO ARTICLE XIII, PARAGRAPH 2;
ARTICLE XVI, PARAGRAPH 3; ARTICLE XX, PARAGRAPH 2; AND ARTICLE XXXI, PARAGRAPH 1, OF THE AMERICAN DECLARATION ON THE RIGHTS OF INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

As regards the idea of sacred sites and objects referred to in Article XIII, paragraph 2; Article XVI, paragraph 3; Article XX, paragraph 2; and Article XXXI, paragraph 1, of the American Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, the Colombian State expressly declares that the determination and regulation of indigenous peoples' sacred sites and objects is to be governed by developments attained at the national level. This is because there is no internationally accepted definition and neither ILO Convention No. 169 nor the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples makes reference to or defines those terms.

Colombia has been making progress with the regulation of the issue, which has involved and will continue to involve the participation of the indigenous peoples, and it will continue to advance toward that goal in accordance with Colombian law and, where appropriate, the applicable international instruments.

The paragraphs to which this note refers are transcribed below:

ARTICLE XIII
RIGHT TO CULTURAL IDENTITY AND INTEGRITY

2. "States shall provide redress through effective mechanisms, which may include restitution, developed in conjunction with indigenous peoples, with respect to their cultural, intellectual, religious, and spiritual property taken without their free, prior and informed consent or in violation of their laws, traditions and customs."

ARTICLE XVI
INDIGENOUS SPIRITUALITY

3. "Indigenous peoples have the right to preserve, protect, and access their sacred sites, including their burial grounds, to use and control their sacred objects and relics, and to recover their human remains."

ARTICLE XX
RIGHTS OF ASSOCIATION, ASSEMBLY, AND FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION AND THOUGHT

2. "Indigenous peoples have the right to assemble on their sacred and ceremonial sites and areas. For that purpose they shall have free access to, and use of, such sites and areas."

ARTICLE XXXI

1. “States shall ensure the full enjoyment of civil, political, economic, social, and cultural rights by indigenous peoples; their right to maintain their cultural and spiritual identity, religious traditions, cosmovision, and values; the protection of their sacred sites and places of worship, and all the human rights contained in this Declaration.”

INTERPRETATIVE NOTE No. 3

OF THE STATE OF COLOMBIA WITH RESPECT TO ARTICLE XIII, PARAGRAPH 2, OF THE OAS DECLARATION ON INDIGENOUS PEOPLES:

The State of Colombia expressly declares that the right of indigenous peoples to promote and develop all their systems and media of communication is subject to the requirements and procedures established in the domestic regulations in force.

The paragraph to which this note refers is transcribed below:

ARTICLE XIV

SYSTEMS OF KNOWLEDGE, LANGUAGE, AND COMMUNICATION

3. “Indigenous peoples have the right to promote and develop all their systems and media of communication, including their own radio and television programs, and to have equal access to all other means of communication and information. States shall take measures to promote the broadcast of radio and television programs in indigenous languages, particularly in areas with an indigenous presence. States shall support and facilitate the creation of indigenous radio and television stations, as well as other means of information and communication.”

RESOLVES:

To adopt the following Plan of Action for the Decade for People of African Descent in the Americas (2016–2025):

PLAN OF ACTION FOR THE DECADE
FOR PEOPLE OF AFRICAN DESCENT IN THE AMERICAS (2016–2025)

BACKGROUND

According to various international and regional organizations, there are some 200 million people of African descent in the Americas.

People of African descent are among the most vulnerable groups in the Hemisphere as a result of poverty, underdevelopment, social exclusion, and economic disparities that are closely associated with racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance.

In addition, the Afro-descendent nations and other member states of the Caribbean Community have traced their developmental challenges to the legacies of the transatlantic slave trade, colonialism, racism, racial discrimination, and intolerance.

Against that backdrop, various international and regional organizations have expressed concern about the vulnerable situation in which people of African descent in the region exist.

The Organization of American States (OAS), through its General Secretariat and the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR), as well as the Summits of the Americas process, have repeatedly expressed concern about the inclusion, respect for human rights, and meeting the needs of this group.

Further to that concern, the OAS General Assembly adopted resolutions AG/RES. 2550 (XL-O/10), “Recognition of the International Year for People of African Descent” and AG/RES. 2693 (XLI-O/11), AG/RES. 2708 (XLII-O/12), AG/RES. 2784 (XLIII-O/13), and AG/RES. 2847 (XLIV-O/14), “Recognition and Promotion of the Rights of Persons of African Descent in the Americas.”

By resolution AG/RES. 2824 (XLIV-O/14), “Recognition of the International Decade for People of African Descent,” the OAS General Assembly recognized the International Decade for People of African Descent proclaimed by the United Nations. It also instructed the Permanent Council to hold a special meeting to celebrate the start of the International Decade for People of African Descent, with a view to exchanging ideas on preparing an OAS plan of action for the Decade.

In November 2015, the Committee on Juridical and Political Affairs (CAJP) of the OAS Permanent Council approved the establishment of the Working Group to Prepare the Plan of Action for the Decade for People of African Descent in the Americas.

This Plan of Action provides a framework for the OAS to implement policies, programs, and projects, as well as guidelines for cooperation with other regional and national organizations to recognize and promote the rights of people of African descent in the Americas.

PLAN OF ACTION FOR THE DECADE
FOR PEOPLE OF AFRICAN DESCENT IN THE AMERICAS (2016–2025)

THE MEMBER STATES OF THE ORGANIZATION OF AMERICAN STATES (OAS),

RECALLING the Charter of the OAS, the American Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man, the American Convention on Human Rights, the Additional Protocol to the American Convention on Human Rights in the Area of Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (Protocol of San Salvador), the Inter-American Democratic Charter, the Social Charter of the Americas, the Inter-American Convention against Racism, Racial Discrimination, and Related Forms of Intolerance, and the Inter-American Convention against All Forms of Discrimination and Intolerance;

UNDERSCORING that the OAS member states have focused on persons of African descent in various resolutions of the General Assembly, in the declarations of the Summits of the Americas, in the Declaration of the Regional Conference of the Americas (Preparatory Meeting for the Third World Conference against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia, and Related Intolerance), held in Santiago, Chile, in 2000, and at the Regional Conference for Latin America and the Caribbean Preparatory to the Durban Review Conference held in Brasilia, Brazil, in 2008;

RECALLING that the vast majority of people of African descent in the Americas are descendants of millions of Africans who were forcibly enslaved and transported as part of the inhuman transatlantic slave trade between the 15th and 19th centuries, which caused indescribable torment to this population, who continue to suffer the effects of slavery;

RECALLING ALSO that the World Conference against Racism, Racial Discrimination, Xenophobia, and Related Intolerance recognizes that slavery and the slave trade, especially the transatlantic slave trade, are a crime against humanity and should always have been so;

WELCOMING the efforts at reparatory justice of the Reparations Commission of the Caribbean Community aimed at correcting the legacies of underdevelopment caused by the enslavement of Africans in the Caribbean;

REAFFIRMING the steadfast commitment of the member states to confront, through various mechanisms, the scourge of racism, discrimination, and intolerance in their societies as a problem that affects society in general, and that all of its individual, structural, and institutional manifestations must be fought;

RECALLING the work of the Rapporteurship on the Rights of Persons of African Descent and against Racial Discrimination of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights;

RECALLING ALSO United Nations resolution 68/237 “Proclamation of the International Decade for People of African Descent,” which began on January 1, 2015, and ends on December 31, 2024, with the theme “People of African descent: recognition, justice, and development”; and

TAKING INTO ACCOUNT the considerations of the special meeting of the Permanent Council to celebrate the start of the International Decade for People of African Descent and the decision of the Committee on Juridical and Political Affairs of the Permanent Council to prepare a Plan of Action for the Decade for People of African Descent in the Americas,

THE ORGANIZATION OF AMERICAN STATES

The Organization of American States (OAS) is the world's oldest regional organization, dating back to the First International Conference of American States, held in Washington, D.C., from October 1889 to April 1890. At that meeting the establishment of the International Union of American Republics was approved. The Charter of the OAS was signed in Bogotá in 1948 and entered into force in December 1951. The Charter was subsequently amended by the Protocol of Buenos Aires, signed in 1967, which entered into force in February 1970; by the Protocol of Cartagena de Indias, signed in 1985, which entered into force in November 1988; by the Protocol of Managua, signed in 1993, which entered into force on January 29, 1996; and by the Protocol of Washington, signed in 1992, which entered into force on September 25, 1997. The OAS currently has 35 member states. In addition, the Organization has granted permanent observer status to 70 states, as well as to the European Union.

The essential purposes of the OAS are: to strengthen peace and security in the Hemisphere; to promote and consolidate representative democracy, with due respect for the principle of nonintervention; to prevent possible causes of difficulties and to ensure peaceful settlement of disputes that may arise among the member states; to provide for common action on the part of those states in the event of aggression; to seek the solution of political, juridical, and economic problems that may arise among them; to promote, by cooperative action, their economic, social, and cultural development; and to achieve an effective limitation of conventional weapons that will make it possible to devote the largest amount of resources to the economic and social development of the member states.

The Organization of American States accomplishes its purposes by means of: the General Assembly; the Meeting of Consultation of Ministers of Foreign Affairs; the Councils (the Permanent Council and the Inter-American Council for Integral Development); the Inter-American Juridical Committee; the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights; the General Secretariat; the specialized conferences; the specialized organizations; and other entities established by the General Assembly.

The General Assembly holds a regular session once a year. Under special circumstances it meets in special session. The Meeting of Consultation is convened to consider urgent matters of common interest and to serve as Organ of Consultation under the Inter-American Treaty of Reciprocal Assistance (Rio Treaty), the main instrument for joint action in the event of aggression. The Permanent Council takes cognizance of such matters as are entrusted to it by the General Assembly or the Meeting of Consultation and implements the decisions of both organs when their implementation has not been assigned to any other body; it monitors the maintenance of friendly relations among the member states and the observance of the standards governing General Secretariat operations; and it also acts provisionally as Organ of Consultation under the Rio Treaty. The General Secretariat is the central and permanent organ of the OAS. The headquarters of both the Permanent Council and the General Secretariat are in Washington, D.C.
