1 During the forty-fifth regular session of CICAD, Peru informed that the source for statistical information on persons formally charged with money laundering offenses is the Public Ministry’s National Registry of Persons Arrested and Sentenced to Jail, RENADESPLE, and the source for persons convicted of these offenses is the Judicial system’s National Sentencing Register.
Peru has also strengthened its pharmaceutical product control entities with adequate personnel, ongoing training, and computer programs, also achieving the goal of expanding the coverage of courses offered on chemical substance control.

The country has also conducted specialized courses on special investigative techniques in prosecution services outside the capital in the area of illicit drug trafficking control and related offenses.

Additionally, Peru has shown progress in implementing the reiterated recommendations from the Third Evaluation Round, establishing an information system to consolidate data on persons formally charged with and convicted of corruption offenses related to drug trafficking and money laundering, and extending administrative controls to relevant professionals, in order to prevent money laundering.

CICAD encourages the country to continue taking the pending steps to implement an information management system to facilitate control of pharmaceutical products and to carry out training and research activities related to the prevention and control of illicit trafficking in pharmaceutical products and other drugs via the Internet, which would enable national needs to be identified at the regulatory and operational levels.

CICAD also encourages Peru to implement a register of ammunition, explosives, and other related materials seized in connection with illicit drug trafficking cases.

Additionally, CICAD notes the efforts made by the country to extend its administrative controls to prevent money laundering to lawyers and accountants, and observes that the provisions in its National Constitution make the implementation of this recommendation difficult.

CICAD recognizes Peru’s participation in the Multilateral Evaluation Mechanism (MEM) and encourages it to continue its efforts to implement the pending recommendations.
