CONCLUSIONS

During the Second Evaluation Round 2001 – 2002, Ecuador was reiterated one recommendation from the First Evaluation Round 1999 – 2000 and was issued nine recommendations, for a total of 10 recommendations. Of these recommendations issued to the country, it has complied with two. It strengthen the application of the pre-notification mechanism for commercial transactions of chemical substances, in accordance with the recommendation from the First Evaluation Round and it made efforts to ensure an appropriate budget to support the National Anti-Drug Plan 2004 – 2008, by issuing Executive Decree 1180. This decree establishes, among others, the pertinent budgetary allocation for the implementation of the referred National Plan.

Ecuador indicates that it anticipates the approval of the National Anti-Drug Plan 2004 – 2008 and important amendments to its Organic Law on Drugs in the year 2004.

Regarding other recommendations, that the country has not fully addressed, it reports that it is taking steps towards their fulfillment. In this way, it has prepared two projects to estimate prevalence and trends of drug consumption and measure the effectiveness of its prevention programs. In addition, it indicates carrying out intelligence actions to measure and monitor the extension of illicit crops. However, the country states that for their implementation, these initiatives require financial and international support. This cooperation is still in the process of being obtained.

Ecuador states that it has started a process of institutional rapprochement that will enable it to implement the recommendation on improving coordination among different sectors involved in the drug problem. However, in relation to the rest of the recommendations, there is no evidence of significant progress. The country needs to complete the development of a control system to prevent the diversion of controlled pharmaceutical products, intensify its efforts to address the problem of displacement in the northeastern part of the country and take the necessary steps to extend the criminalization of money laundering as recommended.

CICAD takes note of the steps taken by Ecuador, recognizes the progress made and encourages it to increase its efforts to fully comply with all of the recommendations.
